Our Aims and objectives

Our charity's purposes as set out in the objects contained in the company's memorandum of association are to benefit the public by:

- Providing a counselling service for men who have experienced sexual abuse and/or rape at any time in their lives.
- Providing a counselling service for significant others affected by the sexual assault of a male.
- Increasing the understanding of the effects of sexual assault perpetrated against men.

The aims of the charity are to enable men to recover from the negative issues arising from their sexually abusive experiences and find ways to move forward with an improved attitude towards their lives. In doing so we recognise that men are not lone individuals and significant others around them play an important part in support and recovery.

Mankind also aims to further the understanding of sexual attacks on men by undertaking and contributing to relevant research and providing training to increase awareness and appropriate responses to men who disclose their experiences.

Our aims fully reflect the purposes that the charity was set up to further.

Ensuring our work delivers our aims

Our aims, objectives and activities are reviewed each year by the management team and presented to the trustees. Mankind is currently working to a five-year business plan that was implemented in 2007. The annual review looks at what we achieved and the outcomes of our work in the previous 12 months. The review looks at the success of each planned outcome and the benefits they have brought to those groups of people we are set up to help. The review also helps us ensure our aims, objectives and activities remained focused on our stated purposes. We have referred to the guidance contained in the Charity Commission's general guidance on public benefit when reviewing our aims and objectives and in planning our future activities. In particular, the trustees consider how planned activities will contribute to the aims and objectives they have set.

The focus of our work during the year

Our main objectives for the year have been to review the work undertaken so far under the Mankind 5 Year Business Plan and evaluate future provision of services. The strategies we used to meet these objectives included:

- Preparation of an independent audit of our CORE monitoring and evaluation system to show the effectiveness of the counselling services and recommendations for the future.
- Review of the counselling services delivered so far and the introduction of a new document, 'A Way of Working' A Process Model of Service Delivery to Male Survivors of Sexual Violence.

How our activities deliver public benefit

All our charitable activities focus on enabling men to work through their sexually abusive experiences and are undertaken to further our charitable purposes for the public benefit. Rape and sexual abuse are crimes that are usually seen as being perpetrated by males on females. It is becoming more widely accepted that males are also victims, and as in a number of high profile cases reported in the press this year, that females are also perpetrators. However it is still generally considered that both are in the minority. This idea is backed up by research and figures such as reported incidents to Police. This has resulted in governmental, health and social policy responses focusing on and being directed towards women, leaving very little discussion or attention on the consequences and needs of men. The truth is we do not know how many men are affected by sexual assault in the UK. Men are caught in a gender trap, desperately wanting to get some help but also fearing the effect on their masculinity should they disclose. This situation will not change until there is a shift in thinking about the motivations behind sexual attacks and the creation of an environment in which men feel able to come forward and talk about their experiences.

What we do know is the impact of sexual abuse/rape on men has far reaching consequences that not only affect the individual victim. There is much ignorance and misinformation surrounding male rape and sexual abuse. Society's lack of understanding about the size of the problem together with the pressure on men to appear strong and masculine can increase feelings of confusion, guilt, shame and doubt. Suppression of these feelings can create many complex issues including:

- Anxiety
- Depression
- Low Self-Esteem
- Social Alienation
- Sexual Dysfunction
- Intimacy and Trust Issues
- Aggression
- Delinquency
- Self-Harm
- Substance Misuse
- Relationship Problems
- Marital Breakdown
- Poor Parenting

MANKIND UK LIMITED

FOR THE YEAR ENDED 30TH SEPTEMBER 2010

These issues can have many social and interpersonal consequences that negatively affect families and communities. For example, research shows that in the area of substance misuse there is a higher prevalence rate of men having experienced child sexual abuse than amongst the general population. Drug and alcohol misuse is associated with ill health, family breakdown, child abuse, domestic violence, poverty, stress, unemployment and lack of opportunities or education. Despite this, sexual abuse is not covered in the National Treatment Agency for substance misuse's "Models of care for the treatment of adult drug misusers" so the issue is not addressed in their substance misuse treatment. This same situation exists in many different areas such as prisons, probation, homelessness, mental health and the NHS. By enabling the core issue of sexual abuse to be addressed Mankind aims to deliver public benefit by contributing to the lessening of a wide range of social problems.

Who used and benefited from our services

The services offered at Mankind are available to anyone who identifies with our charitable purposes and are able to travel to our Newhaven centre. This does create some limitations for those who are unable or are restricted by travel. We are the only service of its kind in the South East and at present funding restrictions limit our service delivery to Newhaven. We have limited access to counselling rooms in Lewes, Eastbourne and Brighton that we are able to offer to clients in those areas unable to access our main centre. Using research figures, we estimate that 576,000 men have experienced some form of sexual assault in the South East Region of the UK. Due to the myths and taboos that surround sexual abuse, men are reluctant to disclose sexual abuse for fear of how they will be viewed. This is reflected in the reported figures to Police, where it is estimated that less than 1% of incidents are reported. Mankind works in an area where very little research or data is available. Analysis and feedback from the users of our service indicates that the majority only chose to seek help as a last resort, when they felt that they could no longer live with the memories and consequences of their abuse. A survey of 78 men reporting sexual abuse in childhood showed that the average time span between the abuse and seeking help was 26 years. This gives us an indication of how difficult it can be for men to come forward and the complexity of issues arising from the suppression of their feelings for such a long time.

We do make a charge for our counselling services that is based on how much the client is able to pay. By allowing the client to choose the amount we do not limit access to our services on the grounds of income. There is a limit to the number of clients we see which is restricted by the number of counsellors available. We began the year with 17 counsellors, we recruited 10 new counsellors during the year but also lost 14 counsellors. This was due to a variety of reasons such as personal situations and family commitments. However we were also affected by the recession in that many volunteers were unable to continue their commitment for financial reasons. This meant that we finished the year with 13 counsellors, which has had an effect on the number of clients we were able to see during the year.

During the year, 81 people were booked in for an assessment with 57 attending and 24 not attending (DNA's). When a client does not attend we try to contact them to book another appointment, 8 clients did not attend their first appointment, which was rearranged. The 24 DNA's either did not respond to further contact or declined a further appointment. We have seen a reduction in the numbers of people requesting a service, and again this may be affected by the recession in which other concerns take priority over the need to seek counselling. 60 clients received a therapeutic service during the year however there has been an increase in the number of counselling hours attended of 11% from 668 in 08/09 to 741 in 09/10.

Further work took place during the year on developing an appropriate service for men that would enable access to services and the ability to gain real benefit from them. Our website continues to be the most popular way of contacting us and the site received 7687 unique visits. Continued mail outs to other agencies and GP's meant that we also improved our local links and increased the referral pathways into Mankind. Work has also been undertaken on developing a process model of service delivery to male survivors of sexual violence. This will consolidate the findings of the past three years into a model that will inform the next two years of delivering counselling services to men.

An independent report of our monitoring and evaluation system was also produced that showed that we were delivering an effective service with the users gaining real and significant benefits comparable with the delivery of secondary care services within the NHS. As part of the new service delivery model implementation, a further monitoring and evaluation procedure will be introduced in the form of a more structured end of counselling review.

Training was delivered to 28 professionals working in areas where men may disclose sexual abuse to increase their knowledge and ability to respond appropriately to a male, should he disclose. Through talks and presentations, awareness raising was delivered to 202 individuals. Awareness raising was also delivered by further local press adverts and articles. It is difficult to gauge the impact of this, however it is hoped that it alerted the public to the fact that men are also victims of sexual assaults and generated discussion on the topic.

Mankind was also invited to take part in The Stern Review, an independent review into how rape complaints are handled. The final report included one of our publicity posters and ensured that men were represented.

We also took part in Brighton and Hove Council Scrutiny Committee report of the Support Services for Victims of Sexual Violence and now sit on their Sexual Violence Reference Group. This has enabled much closer working relationships with other agencies, especially the female sexual violence support agencies. This has led to the Mankind Trustees meeting with the local Rape Crisis Centre Trustees and a proposal for an alliance between the two organisations to work together in providing Brighton and Hove Council services for victims of sexual violence.

Financial Review

Mankind is currently working to a 5-year business plan. Resources to finance this were secured before its inception in the year 07/08. There have been some small changes that have resulted in increases to the original budgets and further funds have been sought and secured.

Principal Funding Sources

The main funding sources continue to be the Big Lottery Fund, The Tudor Trust and The Rayne Foundation.

Reserves Policy and Risk Management

The charity aims to maintain a level of reserves sufficient to ensure the promotion of the charity's objectives.

The trustees have identified the major risks to which the charity is exposed. These risks are subject to annual review and the Trustees monitor the effectiveness of procedures taken to mitigate risk exposure.

Plans for Future Periods

The charity plans to continue delivering services as outlined in the charity's purposes above. In the next year there will be an increased focus on communication and working in partnership with local agencies. This shall be carried out by inviting stakeholders to participate in a meeting to focus on the issues that men face in seeking help. One of the aims of the meeting will be to create solutions to assist them in gaining services to improve the mental health and wellbeing of men affected by sexual violence. Alongside this the implementation of the new process model will provide clearer information on how we work at Mankind and produce further monitoring data to measure the effectiveness of our services.

A sub group will be formed from the Trustees of a local Rape Crisis Centre and Mankind to investigate the proposed alliance between the two agencies. Initially this will seek to find collaborative projects that can be worked on together to produce benefits for both men and women affected by childhood sexual abuse and/or adult sexual assault.

- i. Reduce the adverse effects of crime on victims and witnesses, and prevent secondary victimisation by:

- ii. To encourage more victims and witnesses to come forward by:
 - a. Increasing the willingness of victims and witnesses to report crimes and give their best evidence, thereby ensuring that more offences are brought to justice.

Our work also addresses the programme aims in 'Tackling the Health and Mental Health effects of Domestic and Sexual Violence and Abuse.' (Prof. Catherine Itzin, 2006) Improving outcomes for victims, survivors and service users (including abusers):

They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the company and hence for taking steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF

MANKIND UK LIMITED
(LIMITED BY GUARANTEE)

I report on the financial statements for the year ended 30th September 2010 set out on pages 10 to 15.

Respective responsibilities of trustees and examiner

The charity's trustees are responsible for the preparation of the financial statements. The charity's trustees consider that an audit is not required for this year under part 16 of the Companies Act 2006 and that an independent examination is needed.

It is my responsibility to:

- examine the financial statements (under section 43(3)(a) of the 1993 Act);
- to follow the procedures laid down in the General Directions given by the Charity Commissioners (under section 43(7)(b) of the 1993 Act; and
- to state whether particular matters have come to my attention.

Basis of independent examiner's report

My examination was carried out in accordance with the general directions given by the Charity Commissioner. An examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity and a comparison of the financial statements with those records. It also includes consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the financial statements, and the seeking of explanations from you as trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently I do not express an audit opinion on the view given by the financial statements.

Independent examiner's statement

In connection with my examination, no matter has come to my attention:

- (1) which gives me reasonable cause to believe that, in any material respect, the requirements:
- to keep accounting records in accordance with section 386 of the Companies Act 2006; and
 - to prepare financial statements which accord with the accounting records and to comply with the accounting requirements of the Companies Act 2006 and the Statement of Recommended Practice: Accounting and Reporting by Charities (revised 2005).

have not been met; or

- (2) to which in my opinion, attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the financial statements to be reached.
